Hi,

I wanted to find out if the property that you posted for rent is still available. Actually, I just finished my degree course in university in London and I am relocating on sabbatical leave for a year. If Yes, I have some simple questions I would like to ask::

- * Would you be able to take on a Long Term Lease Like 1yr? Because, I will be staying for a year so I will be signing on a one year lease?
- * Will Utilities be included in the monthly rent? If No, How much do you think it would cost per month? Also, Would it be on my name?
- * What condition is it in?
- * How close is it to Shopping Malls, Banks, Airport, Grocery Stores etc?
- * How is its Environment, Is it a noisy Area or quiet?
- * How much would it cost for Move-In including Deposit Estimated?
- * Are You The Owner/Realtor?
- * Do You Have Currently Taken Pictures You Can Send?
- * Is This property furnished?
- * Would it be available for Occupancy by 15th Of Nov., 2008?

However, please be quite aware that I don't live in the states and this would be my first time of coming over {Sabbatical} and can't have the chance to inspect the home personally. Having Answers to the above questions, let me know if it's possible for me to rent based on pictures and descriptions you have for me. Hi

Goodday.I'm highly interested in the rental.I saw the details and i am really interested in it.Does it need any form of renovation?

I work with the united nations development program(UNDP) Cardiff Uk and i just got a transfer that is bringing me down to San Diego California in the states.I would be coming with my wife.I do not smoke neither do i keep pets.

I would be in the states in 2 weeks time and would want to rent for a year.I would also be paying for the whole year in one lump as soon as i get there so you might not have to bother yourself with a credit check except you have to.I would also bring all proof of employment(letter of employment and letter of transfer) when i get to the states.

I will like you it off further advertismment.Please get back to me if it's is still available so that we can make further arrangements.

I sincerely look forward to hear from you.

Alfred Powell
